Dear Parent/Guardian

It has been brought to my attention that some children have access to inappropriate games that are designated 18+. Call of Duty, Grand Theft Auto and other similar games subject children to material which is inappropriate and they should not have access to them.

As responsible parents, you can avoid your children accessing such unsuitable content without your knowledge by enabling the parental controls. Virtually every internet-connected device has parental controls built in, but they are always switched off by default.

If you have any concerns or worries, Mrs Janice Caldwell, Designated Child Protection Officer, is available to offer any assistance.

Yours sincerely

C.Torrens
